November Hearing Dog Herald

The "A" Team

Hearing Dog Puppies-In-Training Astro, Atlas, Augie, and Acorn from the "A" cohort of trainees can be seen here working with their Master Handlers to learn the "paws" cue. This cue tells the puppy to place just their two front paws onto a raised surface, in this case a step stool. Their Master Handlers introduced this cue using a low stool so that the dogs would be able to feel the height difference, while also ensuring it isn't too high to be jarring to their young joints or too wide to allow all four feet up. Being detailed in this approach is just one way we help to set the pups up for success, ensuring this cue introduction is positive for all involved! In addition to being the perfect pose for photos, this cue will be used down the road for sound alerting when the dog's handler may be slightly out of the dogs easy reach – perhaps sitting on the couch or laying down in bed. Learning the "paws" cue is a critical step in getting the dogs to climb when necessary to alert their handler.

Adopt me, Tulok!

Crate trained? Of course!
Cat friendly? They are my BFF's!
Leash manners? I am a loose leash pro!
Basic obedience? Nothing basic about my obedience!
Handsome? Duh!
Goofy? My playful antics bring laughs to all!

Tulok is still on his quest to find a home in time for the Holidays this year! "I tried my hand at being a candidate for service dog work with International Hearing Dog but decided that it's just not for me. Though I learned lots of cues, walk nicely on leash, have nice house manners, and am crate trained through my time in their training program!" At IHDI, our dogs are the core of our program, and we recognize that working as a hearing dog is not for every dog. So, we listen when a dog signals to us that they'd prefer a "career change" to that of a best friend, which is also an incredibly important job. Career Change dogs have all the makings of wonderful companions and are better suited to romps at the park, and entertaining us with their antics and are adopted out as loving companion pets. Tulok is the most dashing 4 year old husky mix you've ever seen! He loves spending time with his favorite people, walking, playing and lounging outside. Hid foster family says he makes them laugh every day!
